REVIVAL STARTS IN LOCAL CHURCH

More than a Thousand Present at Opening Service of Revival Season. Six Conversions Announced at First Meeting. Inspiring Music.

With more than a thousand interested persons occupying all the available seating space and much of the standing room in the large St. James Lutheran church, the ten day revival services for which the congregation has been preparing for the past few months opened Sunday evening. It was a most auspicious beginning and promised well for the series of services.

Led by a choir of one hundred and twenty five voices the singing was inspiring. Many of the well known revival hymns are used and the congregation joins heartily with the choir in making the auditorium ring with sacred melody. The "Immanuel" song and "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" were sung by almost every one present and it has been many a day since such congregational singing was heard in Gettysburg.

Rev. Joseph B. Baker, pastor of the church, who will deliver practically all of the sermons during the time of the revival, stated that the congregation did not want it understood that the services were primarily to increase the membership of St. James; that so long as conversions were made he did not care whether those led to better lives should join the Lutheran church or some other denomination so long as they became affiliated with some church. "It is no more correct to say that you are a Christian without belonging to a church than to say that you are a Mason when you have never joined the order."

Personal work is figuring prominently this week and individual workers may be seen going about town to urge persons to identify themselves with Christianity. That this is to play a large part in the work of the next ten days was indicated at the service in the church Sunday morning when Mr. Baker announced that, while attempts would be made at every evening service to have persons present reach a definite decision, these evening meetings should rather be considered as a banquet after a day's honest toil in the Master's vineyard, a reward to be enjoyed for work well done.

That this personal work has already been successfully started was shown when Mr. Baker announced Sunday evening the names of six who had signed the cards indicating their conversion.

Twenty minutes before the time for the opening of the evening service the church was comfortably filled but people were quick to make room for those who were not so prompt in arriving and a very small proportion had to stand. Seeing the auditorium so well filled a quarter of an hour before the time of the evening service the choir led a twenty minute song service. The large chorus has been accommodated by the erection of a platform and Mrs. Baker leads the singers. Later this week, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of Montoursville, prominent in evangelistic work, will be here to assist in the music of the services.

The sermon Sunday evening was on the text "One Thing Thou Lackest" and was preached in the usual earnest and forceful way of the pastor of the church. Several striking sentences from his sermon were,

"No man ever asked a greater question under the stars than the man who asked Jesus 'What shall I do to inherit eternal life?'"

"One thing here can blight your eternal destiny. A very little thing may stand between you and happiness for all time to come."

"Don't bank upon your virtues. If you do, you know in your heart there are some unforgiven sins in your life."

"What does it matter how strong you are in one thing, if you are not right with Christ in all?"

"The faith that saves, that wins, is the faith that moves toward our God and toward our fellow men. You lack faith in God or you would do what he tells you whether you see the reason in it or not."

"It is simply look and live with Jesus Christ or turn away and be lost."

During the singing which followed the sermon several rose in their seats, indicating their decisions. Mrs. Baker sang "It May be the Last Call" and the congregation was dismissed after singing another hymn.

The services each evening will start at 7:30, the doors being opened at seven o'clock.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD ON PORCH

Mrs. Miles is Discovered Lying Dead on Porch of the Sillik Home Near Biglerville. Had been a Resident of the County since September.

With her arms folded, Mrs. William Miles was found dead on the porch at the home of Amos Sillik near Biglerville on Saturday morning. The body had been there for some little time before it was discovered.

Mrs. Miles had gone to the porch with a broom intending to do some cleaning and while there was evidently stricken with paralysis, and fell over backward. Mr. Sillik happened there a little while afterward and at once summoned Mrs. Miles' daughter who discovered that she was dead.

In September Mrs. Miles came from her home in Baltimore to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. Grace Decker, who has been keeping house for several years for Mr. Sillik. Mrs. Decker formerly lived in Hunterstown and is the only surviving child but Mrs. Miles has two sisters living, Mrs. Susan Finn, of Denver, Colorado, and Mrs. Elizabeth Gluker, of Baltimore.

The body was taken to Baltimore this afternoon and the funeral will be held from one of the Methodist churches in that city on Tuesday.

JAMES D. SLAYBAUGH

James Donald Slaybaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Slaybaugh, died at his home at Centre Mills, this morning at six o'clock, aged 8 months from pneumonia and whooping cough.

He is survived by his parents and the following brothers and sisters, Gladys, Pearl, Earl, Marguerite, Raymond and Claire, all at home.

Funeral Wednesday afternoon meeting at the house at 1:30. Services at the Bendersville Lutheran church. Interment in Bendersville Cemetery.

Friends will accept this as an invitation without further notice.

H. H. EICHELBERGER

Harry H. Eichelberger, Western Maryland engineer, died about midnight Sunday at his home in Baltimore. He was well known in Gettysburg and had many friends here.

FIRE TRAPS

York County May Build Almshouse to Replace Present One.

Steps are being taken by the York County Commissioners and the Directors of the Poor for the erection of a new almshouse.

For thirty years the State Board of Public Charities has been condemning conditions at the York County institution. Bromley Wharton, secretary of the State Board of Public Charities, has announced the old almshouse as a fire trap.

The County Commissioners have decided to heed his warning and are looking about for a new site. The new almshouse will be some distance from the city, so that the inmates can get plenty of light and fresh air. It is said that a tract of at least 100 acres will be obtained. Fertile ground will be selected so as to make the institution as nearly self sustaining as possible.

FARMERS WILL MEET FRIDAY

First of the Series of Farmers' Institutes Open on Friday. Will be Held at Three Places in the County. Local Committees in Each.

This week the series of farmers' institutes starts in this county with the first session at York Springs Friday afternoon. A. I. Weidner will preside and G. P. Emmert will make the address of welcome. Lectures will be delivered afternoon and evening with three sessions Saturday. Lantern slides will be used at both evening sessions.

The committee in charge of the York Springs meeting consists of the following: D. A. Gardner, E. C. Keefe, C. W. Gardner, William Van Scoyoc, C. E. Pearson, W. J. Asper, O. F. Lerew, Abram Grove, Able Williams. The query committee will be Wm. E. Grove, C. I. Bushey, H. J. Stitzel.

The local committee of York Springs has arranged to give cash prizes for the best display of plates of apples and potatoes.

Next Monday afternoon the sessions start at Warren's Hall in Arendtsville. Mr. Weidner will again preside and Rev. T. C. Hesson will make the address of welcome. Two sessions will be held on Monday and three on Tuesday, the lantern being used at both evening sessions and at the Tuesday afternoon meeting.

The following compose the committee in charge: Charles Raffensperger, Arthur Roberts, J. F. Bushey, George R. Hartman, John C. Walter, George Fohl and Calvin Carey. The following will be the query committee: William W. Boyer, C. S. Rice, A. D. Sheely and J. A. Knouss.

On Wednesday and Thursday of next week the institute will take place in Odd Fellows' Hall, Fairfield. J. U. Neely will preside and Rev. D. W. Woods will make the address of welcome. The lantern slides will be used only at Thursday evening's session.

The Fairfield committee is C. P. Bream, J. M. Weikert, George Sites, W. C. D. Marshall, D. C. Musselman, William Linn, George J. Kebil, William Scott, Elmer Zimmerman, John C. Bream, E. F. Strausbaugh, Irvin Messelman, Thomas Walter, E. Ben Snyder. The query committee is J. F. Mackley, Charles Bigham, J. B. McCullough.

The speakers for the series of meetings will be D. H. Watts, of Keermoor; E. B. Dorsett, Mansfield; C. M. Barnitz, of Riverside.

Although these institutes are designed and conducted for the education and advantage of farmers, yet all who are interested are invited to attend, and it is the desire of the management they will show their appreciation, not only by being present at the meetings, but also by taking part in the discussions.

A question box will be kept upon the Secretary's desk, and all are invited to place therein such questions as they may wish to have discussed during the session. At the proper time, designated by the meeting, these questions will be referred to some one for answer, or brought up for general discussion.

FOR MORE TROUT

Yearling Fish are being "Planted" Throughout the State.

Over half a million trout will be placed in the streams of the State within the next six weeks by wardens of the State Department of Fisheries and people connected with fishing clubs and associations who have agreed with the State authorities to look after the distribution of the young fish. The distribution is being carried on independently of what is being done by the national government agents and will cover the whole State. Some fish have been placed on eastern streams in the last fortnight.

Commissioner of Fisheries N. R. Buller says that some yearling trout have been placed in the streams, it being the idea that such fish only should be used as can take care of themselves and the percentage surviving is far greater than when much younger fish or fish fry are turned loose. The fish are raised at State hatcheries and sent out under agreements to properly distribute them and to make reports on results of the "planting".

HIS INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Man who Went to Sleep on Lime Kiln Dies after Lying a Week in Frederick Hospital. Formerly Lived Near Littlestown.

As a result of burns which he sustained while sleeping near the top of a lime kiln at Woodsboro last Sunday, J. Lewis Demmitt formerly from near Littlestown, died at Frederick on Saturday. Demmitt was intoxicated at the time, it is said, and he lay down to sleep too near the fire of one of the kilns.

On Sunday afternoon Demmitt was removed to the Montevue Hospital in Frederick where he was given attention. One leg of the unfortunate man was frightfully burned, it being found in a stiffened condition. It was thought that he had fairly good chances for recovery. The physician at Montevue had decided to amputate the member, but later it was thought best not to do this.

It is not known exactly how Demmitt came to get so near the fire. He may have rolled over near the fire while in a drunken stupor. His cries attracted the attention of persons occupying a shack nearby. Demmitt has had the reputation of being somewhat of a wanderer.

His wife died some time ago. They have five children, four girls and a boy, who make their home with the father's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Demmitt, who conducts a boarding house at Taneytown.

Demmitt was a painter by trade, although he did other kinds of work. He was born forty five years ago and reared in Taneytown.

The funeral was held in Taneytown.

WEEK'S WEATHER

Low Temperatures will Prevail Throughout the East.

Winter's backbone is still a long way from broken, according to the Weather Bureau experts. "The general distribution of atmospheric pressure over the North American continent and the adjacent oceans," said the weekly bulletin, "is such as to indicate temperatures considerably below the seasonal average until the middle of the week east of the Rocky Mountains."

"The weather will be generally fair during the first half of the week in the Plains States, the great Central Valleys and the North Atlantic States. In the Gulf and South Atlantic States the weather will be overcast, with probably rains along the Gulf and South Atlantic Coasts until Wednesday."

"The next disturbance of importance to cross the United States will appear on the North Pacific Coast Tuesday, attended by general rains; it will prevail over the Middle West about Thursday and the Eastern States Friday or Saturday; this disturbance will be preceded by a general reaction to higher temperatures and be attended by general rain in southern and snow and rain in northern states east of the Rocky Mountains."

LUTHERANS WARNED

York Pastors May Dismiss Those Who Aided Saloons.

Lutheran ministers of York have decided either to discipline or dismiss from their congregations all members who recently signed liquor license petitions. The names of the signers of such petitions were published recently in a York paper by the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The signing of a liquor license petition is in violation of a rule of the church. The West Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod, at its convention last summer, in Gettysburg, decided that no member of the church within the jurisdiction of the synod would be allowed to offer bond, sign a liquor license petition or engage in the liquor business.

HEAR COMPLAINTS

To Find Out How Things are Going at Indian School.

Senators Robinson, Arkansas, and Lane, Oregon, and Representative Carter, Oklahoma, and Stephens, Texas, constituting a joint sub-committee of the Indian Affairs Committee of the two houses of Congress, on Saturday continued their investigation of affairs at the Carlisle Indian School. They particularly inquired into complaints made against Superintendent Friedman, of the institution.

Speaking of the investigation Saturday Senator Robinson, chairman of the joint committee, said: "The joint committee is visiting Carlisle to investigate conditions generally prevailing in the school. A number of complaints have been made against the administration of the school. Among these are laxity of discipline, unjust expulsion of students, misrepresentation of the school to the public generally by the school authorities, and to the Indian Bureau; alleged unsanitary conditions; complaints as to the quality and quantity of the food, and also complaints against alleged unjust punishments. There are some other matters relating to the accounts of the superintendent connected with the athletic fund, and his accounts as superintendent that are under investigation."

ANNIE LOUISE CARY

And Her Favorite "Robin Adair"

The indisputable queen of song in her day was Annie Louise Cary. She was one of the world's famous contraltos when she retired from the operatic stage at the very height of her career in opera. She was born in Wayne, Maine. She retained the sweet, wholesome characteristics of the American girl all during her musical triumphs. She made her debut in Copenhagen, although she studied in Milan. For three years she delighted European audiences before making her appearance in America. For over twelve years, with the exception of a brief European tour, she delighted American audiences with the charms of her voice and personality. But to hear her sing "Robin Adair", that simple old song, and that masterpiece of Arthur Sullivan's, "The Lost Chord", and Longfellow's "The Day is Done" with the rich tones of the happy, good-natured personality that always charmed, she always left the audience breathless and spellbound. In the sunset of her sweet life she occasionally sang for deserving charities with that sweet charm of her youth which made her the popular favorite of her day. "Robin Adair", "The Lost Chord", and many other favorites of Cary, are to be found in "Heart Songs" now being distributed to the readers of this paper. See Coupon elsewhere in this issue for terms.

WERE LOCKED IN DEATH TRAIN

Ten Americans Among Those Burned in Mexican Tunnel.

WHOLE TRAIN WIPED OUT

Victims Were Locked in Cars and Sent to Their Death in Burning Cumbre Tunnel.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 9.—Locked in the cars of a Mexican Northwestern railway passenger train by Castillo's bandits and sent to their death in the burning Cumbre tunnel, near Madero, Mexico, was the fate of ten American officials and employees of the railway,
and of more than thirty passengers,
according to a dispatch to the officers of the company in El Paso by a party of officials who are searching for the victims at the burning tunnel.

The body of John Fernandez, the rear brakeman of the passenger train, was found in the tunnel by F. C. Herr, F. C. Clark and Dr. O. C. West, of the Mexican Northwestern.

The body was in the north part of the tunnel, which was still burning,
and the intense heat prevented the searching party from penetrating sufficiently to find other bodies of the victims.

The indications are plentiful that the entire party of forty or more persons on the train had been burned to death
when the train had been sent crashing into the burning tunnel after the bandits of Maximo Castillo's band had locked the passengers into the cars.

In addition to seven officials of the railroad who are known to have been on the train, it is believed that J. M.
Montgomery, an American engineer, was with them, and that J. T. Alexander, conductor of the freight train, which was first burned by the bandits, also was sent to his death in the shaft.

Included among the victims of the tunnel horror are H. Scofield, M. J.
Gilmartin, Leo Williams, E. J. Mc-Cutcheon, J. E. Webster and H. F.
Mardgers, all employees of the railroad.

Additional confirmation that all the passengers were lost in the tunnel
fire was received in a telegram to P.
C. Thede, local manager of the Pearson interest, and to owners of the road from F. C. Herr, of the searching party.

Mr. Herr telegraphed that he had just found a Mexican of good standing who had left the train at Cumbre station, near the mouth of the tunnel, and who said that no one else left the train
there and that the train must have entered the tunnel at the usual speed.

Fifty coffins were sent on a special train to Cumbre and thirty Mexicans and twenty Americans went to aid in the search for the bodies and to try to extinguish the fire.

That the persons on the train were suffocated by the smoke in the tunnel
before the flames actually reached them
is the belief of the searchers.

Resident of El Paso are so infuriated that if the benefits can be found immediate death will be their fate.
The men who got into the tunnel are all heavily armed and prepared to meet out punishment to any bandit they find who may have had a hand in the horror.

BLEASE THREATENS TO KILL

Governor Steps Witness With Warning Not to Mention Sister's Name.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 9.—The investigation by the legislature of the State hospital scandal developed a sensation when Governor Blease interrupted a witness with the threat to kill him if he brought the name of the governor's sister into the investigation.

Dr. J. W. Babcock, superintendent of the Hospital for the Insane, was on the witness stand at the time, and was being pressed to tell what he knew of rumors concerning his assistant, Dr. Saunders, who is a woman.
He began by relating an incident that he said occurred at the home of Governor Blease's sister.

"That's false," cried the governor, springing to his feet and forbidding the physician to drag his sister's name into the scandal, and threatening to kill him if he did. Governor Blease was then sworn and put on the witness stand.

PENROSE AND PALMER.

They Seek Nominations For Seat
in U. S. Senate.

Photos by American Press Association.

At the urgent request of President
Wilson, Representative A. Mitchell
Palmer, of Pennsylvania, announced that he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator to succeed Senator Boies Penrose, who is seeking to be renominated by the Republican party.
It also was announced that Vance Mc-Cormick, ex-mayor of Harrisburg, a grandson of Simon Cameron, would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Pennsylvania.
Gifford Pinchot is seeking the Progressive nomination for senator. The primaries will be held on May 19.

ATTACKED WOMAN; GETS LONG TERM

Rich Farmer Guilty of Attack
on Wife's Guest.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 9.—E. Graham Wilson, a wealthy farmer, prominent in the social life in this part of the state, who was convicted of attacking Miss Kate Turner, while she was the guest of his wife at their country home last June, was sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary
by Judge J. N. Wood.

Wilson was committed to jail, pending an appeal by his counsel. Wilson was tried in November in the same court house in which John Brown was tried and sentenced. The charge made against him by Miss Turner, a young church worker of Jefferson county, whose family has been prominent in Virginia and West Virginia for many years, aroused the whole county. She was so badly injured that it was feared she would die. Mob violence was threatened against Wilson.

Miss Turner alleged that on June 6,
while she was visiting Mrs. Wilson, the latter's husband returned from the Leeburg horse show and invited her to take a drive with him to another farm which he owned.

At a lonely spot on the farm, Miss Turner said, Wilson suddenly stopped the carriage and attacked her. She screamed, broke away and ran down the road.

Wilson overtook her, she charged,
and carried her back to the buggy, almost choking her to death. She said that he told her it would be foolish to expose him, and when they got back to the Wilson home she was hysterical, but said nothing to Mrs.
Wilson.

When she reached her home, however, she told her mother and sister, and Wilson was arrested on the following Monday, June 10, and taken to the Charlestown jail.

KILLS SISTER PLAYING INDIAN

Boy Fires Bullet Into Baby's Brain
With Small Rifle.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 9.—Left at home
to mind his fifteen-months-old sister, Joseph Janety, eleven years old, found a small rifle in the house and started playing Indian.

Putting the baby in a bed, the boy raised the rifle and, aiming at the child, pulled the trigger. The weapon was discharged and the bullet struck the baby in the left eye, passing clear through the brain and killed it in stantly.

The boy was taken to police headquarters, where he explained that he did not know the gun was loaded.

Wakes to Find Bedfellow Dead.

GRILL HUSBAND OF SLAIN WIFE

Murderess' Letter May Implicate Him.

TELLS OF BLASTED HOPES

The Unhappy Girl, in Desperate
Straits, Takes Poison and Confesses Dramatic Shooting.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 7.—With the mother and sister of his slain wife staring at him, ready to challenge any false statement that he might make, Charles J. Manning was subjected to a constant fire of questions for two hours by the Newark police, seeking to determine just to what extent if any,
he is responsible for the slaying.

Whether or not he in any way impelled nineteen-year-old Hazel Herd-man, who was infatuated with him, to the fatal assault upon his estranged wife is the problem the police are endeavoring to solve. His solution will determine whether or not the man will be held for trial as an accessory of the crime.

Hazel Herdman, who committed suicide after confessing that she murdered Mrs. Manning because she was infatuated with her husband, will be buried in Orange.

Detectives are following clues obtained from a letter which was written by Hazel Herdman before she swallowed bichloride of mercury. The letter was found in the girl's clothing in the hospital after she died.

The police have learned that an estate of $2400 was left to Mrs. Manning by her father and that she received the money just a week ago.
The police are endeavoring to find out if this money could be a motive for Manning in an attempt to get rid of his wife through his love-crazed paranoid, as Manning now falls heir
to the money.

"I killed her because she wouldn't give him up. I loved him, and with her out of the way we could have married and given our child an honorable name."

Efforts to persuade the woman to divorce the man and make the way clear for the new union had proved unavailing, the young woman averred, and there was no way for her but to resort to the pistol.

Miss Hazel Herdman cleared away
the mysterious murder of Mrs. Harriet Manning in her home in Newark
on Friday night.

The young woman exonerated Manning from any part in the murder.
She said that he was horrified and shocked when she told him what she had done.

The killing of Mrs. Manning was like a chapter out of a "best seller."
Mrs. Manning was in the kitchen, washing. Mrs. Cobb, her mother, was returning from the yard with an armful of wood, and Mrs. Riley, a sister, was preparing supper. The doorbell rang and Mrs. Cobb answered. A tall woman, dressed all in black, with a gray raincoat thrown loosely over her shoulders, stood in the doorway. A heavy crape veil, which hid her face, was draped over a black hat. In one hand the woman held a black silk umbrella. Her other hand she kept in a pocket of her raincoat.

"Is Mrs. Manning in?" the visitor asked in a low voice, which did not enable Mrs. Cobb to determine whether the caller was a man dressed in woman's clothes or a woman, as her dress seemed to indicate.

"Yes, she is in," replied Mrs. Cobb.
"Who shall I say is calling on her?"
"Just say that an old friend from Philadelphia would like to talk with her for a few minutes," the visitor replied.

Mrs. Cobb ushered the veiled stranger into the parlor. She then called Mrs. Manning.

Mrs. Manning came in from the kitchen and entered the room. The parlor was dark, and Mrs. Manning she started to light the gas, was overheard to remark: "Who is it that wants to see me?"

The visitor was heard to whisper
something in reply, and immediately thereafter a pistol shot followed. Before Mrs. Cobb and Mrs. Riley could rush into the room there came a second shot. They saw the stranger in a corner of the room, with the pistol still in her hand. She fired one more shot at them, but it missed, and she fled from the house.

Retail Hardware Men to Meet.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—Retail hardware dealers from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, New York and the New England states will gather in Philadelphia this week to attend the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Retail Hardware association, which will open tomorrow and will continue four days. More than 500 hardware leaders are expected to take part in the sessions.

Congressman's Trap Nets Six Cats.
Washington, Feb. 9.—Representa-

six perfectly good cats which he would like to present his constituents or anybody who desires them. The slumbers of the Thatcher family have been disturbed by the midnight wallings, so he set a trap for the disturbers. He found six cats in the trap, and now he doesn't know what to do with them.

WHISKY IN CORSETS

Bootleggers Also Use 28-Quart Jackets as Smuggling Medium.

Muskogee, Okla., Feb. 9.—The latest fad in bootleg society is the twenty-eight-quart jacket and the sixteen-pint corset. This is a style for both men and women in smuggling and selling liquor.

The federal prohibition enforcement officers discovered a new design in the jacket, which apparently is the very latest out. It was found in a trunkful of whisky, which was confiscated.

The jacket is made of canvas, discled and sewed with stout thread into compartments just the size of a quart of whisky. The garment is put on over the head, for which a hole is cut, and fits around the body. Then each compartment is filled with a quart of whisky.

Over this the bootlegger draws on a complete outfit of clothing, from undergarments out, but filled out by the whisky jacket until he becomes a fine example of "after taking."

The corset is used on the same principle, and with the same effect,
except that it is on a smaller scale.
Pockets are provided for sixteen pints of whisky, and a woman of ordinary build in wearing one of the corsets is made to look like the average fat woman.

TAKES BICHLORIDE FOR HIS HEADACHE

Sufferer's Mistake May Cost
May His Life.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—Frank Gallagher, twenty-five years old, of 2014
Parrish street, is in a serious condition at the West Philadelphia Homeopathic hospital, after swallowing several tablets of bichloride of mercury,
thinking they were headache tablets.

The physicians at the hospital say that Gallagher may recover, but cannot say at once, owing to the dilatory nature of the poison.

Gallagher declares that he awakened with a severe headache and asked his friend, Howard Stevenson, with whom he was spending the night at 18 North Yewdell street, for some medicine to relieve him.

Stevenson told him that he would find a bottle of headache tablets in the medicine chest. Gallagher took several and shortly afterward he was writing in agony.

His friend then discovered that Gallagher had taken the bichloride and summoned the patrol of the Sixty-first and Thompson streets police station.

MILLION PRIZE FOR AVIATORS

Offer For Flight Around the World Is More Than Trebled.

San Francisco, Feb. 9.—One million dollars, officials of the Panama-Pacific Exposition announced, is now the prize proposed for an around-the-world flight in any form of air craft, starting and finishing on the expansion grounds in 1915.

The project of jumping the prize money from $200,000 to more than three times that amount came, it was announced, from the Aero Club of America, and has a string to it—the extent of the time limit, now set at ninety days.

As announced, the idea of the Aero Club of America is to get more time—perhaps thirty additional days—in which the world may be circled. If this can be done the co-operation of more than 400 air clubs, the world over, can be obtained, the Aero club
men report, and the raising of $1,000, 000, it is said, will not be difficult.

GRAIN ELEVATOR BURNS

$1,500,000 Blaze in Chicago Threatened Wharves and Buildings.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The biggest fire in point of money loss which Chicago has had in many years destroyed the Minnesota Annex elevator, owned by the Armour Grain company.

The flames burned up 1,500,000 bushels of grain which the elevator held
and endangered neighboring elevators, freight carriers at nearby wharves and buildings as far away as the opposite side of the Chicago river.

Estimates of the loss ranged from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. The fire was gotten under control only after a desperate fight by the firemen.

Auto Kills Coaster.

Pittston, Pa., Feb. 9.—Robert Gavin, nine years old, was killed when he ran his sled into the automobile of William Krise. He was told that the coast was clear and started down the hill at great speed. As he struck a cross road the automobile of Krise came upon the scene and young Gavin
was unable to steer from the danger.

Mail Carrier Innovation.

Winsted, Conn., Feb. 9.—Its business

ELOPING BRIDE LEAVES SOCIETY

Miss Carey's Family Failed to Prevent Marriage.

PAIR WILL GO ABROAD

Baltimore Wonders Whether Exclusive Fashionable Set Will Receive Socialist Leader.

Baltimore, Feb. 9.—Not in recent years has Baltimore been the scene of a romance that has attracted as much attention as that which culminated in the marriage at Roncverto, W. Va., of Miss Louise Carey and Dr. Joshua Rosett, leader of the Baltimore Socialists.

The wedding marked another triumph for the little blind god over the obstacles opposed by stern parental objection.

It has been an open secret that the match was decidedly against the inclination of Miss Carey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis King Carey, and that everything possible had been done to prevent it. These efforts, however, all proved unavailing.

Local society is all agog over the wedding, and one thing is certain, the Carey family is not receiving many congratulations. Some are asking if Dr. Rosett will be accepted in the same social swim in which his bride moved. This remains to be seen.

Before leaving White Sulphur Springs, presumably for Baltimore, although New York is believed to be their objective point, Dr. Rosett made it plain that the wedding was not an elopement; that his bride had been at White Sulphur Springs several weeks, and that she had been chaperoned all the time by a trained nurse who had accompanied her from Baltimore. The couple expect to sail for Europe in a few days, where they will remain at least six months. Upon their return they will live in New York, and Dr. Rosett's eldest son by his former marriage will live with them.

Miss Carey's family is one of the oldest and so far as social connections are concerned, one of the most prominent in the entire state, having occupied for many years a position in the most exclusive and conservative set.

Friends say that, in opposing the match, Mr. and Mrs. Carey were actuated solely by the thought of their daughter's future welfare and happiness, which they feared was jeopardized on account of the fact that she and her fiancé occupied radically different stations in life, having practically no friends or social ties in common.

About a year ago Miss Carey took up settlement work, and during the great garment workers' strike in New York she went there and did picket duty every day until the young working women won their victory. She then went to Paterson, N. J., to aid the cause of the working girls of that city in what they were striving for. There, too, she did picket duty and remained in that city until the Industrial Workers of the World had been driven out and the strike was declared off. She next took a great interest in helping to organize the working girls of Baltimore, and during a strike was arrested with several other girls for doing picket duty, but the case was dismissed.

RAT KILLS A CAT

Livernan Watches Battle to the Death in Stable.

Sunbury, Pa., Feb. 9.—In a battle to the death between a big rat and a cat at George Meiser's livery stable here the cat was killed by being bitten through the jugular vein. Meiser, who watched the battle, then shot the rat, which weighed four pounds.

The cat was seen sitting by the side of a rat hole all day. Finally a rat ventured out and was pounced upon. The rat turned and sank its teeth in the cat's neck. They rolled around for three minutes, when the rat released its grip on the cat's neck and it stretched out dead, having bled to death.

NO TRACE FOUND OF KIDNAPED GIRL

Man Stabbed by Her Father
May Recover.

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 9.—Pretty eighteen-year-old Jennie Pickard, who was kidnapped by four men Saturday while on her way with several companions from her home at Black Horse to the Reading Screw works, where she had been employed for two years, has not been found, and it is believed she has been taken out of the state.

The girl's father, Frank Pickard, who is wealthy, is in the county prison awaiting the result of the injuries he inflicted on Peter Rennes, one of the men alleged to have assisted in the abduction. Rennes was stabbed in the neck and abdomen. Physicians at the hospital say the man may recover. Warrants have been issued for his two brothers.

Frank Monticello, twenty-three years old, who is accused of the kidnapping, has resided at the Black Horse only a few months, and did not even have a speaking acquaintance with Miss Pickard.

The girl was engaged to marry Garmon Bell, a foreman in one of the departments at the Reading Screw works.

WORM KILLS BOY

Crawled Into Lad's Ear While He Slept
Under Tree.

Pennsburg, Pa., Feb. 9.—A tiny worm in his ear caused the death of Monroe Ward, nine years old, the son of Mrs. Rosa Ward, of Spinnerstown, near here.

Three years ago, while the boy was sleeping under a tree near the house, the worm crawled into his ear. The same evening the boy complained of a pain, and insisted that something was "eating" in his head.

A physician was called and the boy was kept upon a pillow of earth for four weeks in an effort to coax the worm out of the ear, but without success.

Total blindness soon followed. An X-ray photograph revealed the worm deep in the lad's head. The worm was finally removed by means of alcohol injections, but the boy grew steadily worse and death followed.

Finds Victim of the War.
Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 9.—While he was digging a fence post hole on his father's farm, near Brownville, Claude Wastler found the bones of a man that had been buried under two feet of earth. The skeleton was intact and it is believed that it was that of a Union soldier who was killed by a Confederate sharpshooter a few days before the battle of Antietam.

Converts Baptized Through Ice.

Shamokin, Pa., Feb. 9.—A large audience assembled at Edgewood Park lake when a large class of converts to the Mennonite faith, despite the fact that the thermometer registered zero, broke the ice and were plunged into the water for baptism. Rev. H. A. Kauffman accompanied each convert into the lake to perform the immersion.

DON'T GROW BALD

Use Parisian Sage.
If your hair is getting thin, losing its natural color, or has that matted, lifeless and scraggy appearance, the reason is evident—dandruff and failure to keep the hair roots properly nourished.

Parisian Sage applied daily for a week and then occasionally is all that is needed. It removes dandruff with one application; almost immediately stops falling hair and itching head; invigorates the scalp and makes stringy hair soft, abundant and radiant with life. Equally good for men, women or children—every one needs it.

A large bottle of this delightful hair tonic can be had from People's Drug Store or any drug counter for 50 cents. You will surely like Parisian Sage. There is no other "Just-as-good"—Try it now.

QUESTION CLEARED UP

Gettysburg Readers Can No Longer
Doubt the Evidence.

Again and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine.
But Gettysburg's pertinent question has always been "Has anyone here in Gettysburg been cured?" The word of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true, but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens, whom we know and respect, and whose evidence we can easily prove.

W. N. Flaherty, 311 Washington St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me and I willingly recommend them. I was injured some years ago and my kidneys were affected. I got various remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly cured me. Whenever I have taken them since, they have done good work."

FOR OUT OF DOOR WEAR NOTHING EQUALS THE MIDDY BLOUSE

In the matter of outing clothes Dame Fashion is quite as "fussy" as with the more conventional garments. One would never think of playing golf in a peg-top skirt, unless it were unusually wide at the bottom; and a fluffy blouse would be quite as much out of place. The Middy blouse is an ideal garment. It is an American idea that has been copied in Paris and very well liked.

Number S154 is a design showing as a new feature, the raglan sleeve. Linen or some heavy wash material is usual but here it is fashioned of dark blue serge, collared and cuffed in white.
The plated skirt is also of serge. For the school girl a design of this sort would be attractive and very comfortable.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern

This blouse requires for size 36 3/4 yards of 36-inch material. The skirt may be made in size 24 with 7 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

A simple little afternoon dress is illustrated in number S157. It is a design that is particularly suited to bordered materials. A dark green flowered silk is employed here with a border embroidered in soutache braid. The inset section in the front of the skirt is a novel detail which at the same time gives a suggestion of the peg-top.

To copy this dress in size 36 3/4 yards of 36-inch material will be required.

Number S154—sizes 20 to 42.

Number S157—sizes 22 to 46.

Number S158—sizes 34 to 46.

Each pattern 15 cents.

WHISTLER STORIES

Audacity and Sarcasm of the Eccentric Genius.

THE FAMOUS PEACOCK ROOM

"Jimmie's" Offhand Hospitality, at His Patron's Expense, While Decorating It, the Clash It Led to and the Way the Artist Squared Accounts.

In Mrs. Alec Tweedle's "Thirteen Years of a Busy Woman's Life" she tells this story of Whistler, which she heard at first hand:

"The famous peacock room at Prince's Gate was a wonderful scheme of decoration, peacock's eyes on a gold ground being its principal motif. About the year 1860 the late Mr. Leyland, a wealthy shipowner and patron of the arts, had taken this grand new mansion and asked Whistler to decorate a room. Jimmy, poor and out at elbows as usual, jumped at the idea, but no terms were fixed upon. The work began. It was a prodigious undertaking, and the extraordinary and erratic little man gave it his whole time.

"Being at Prince's Gate all day and having the run of Leyland's house, Whistler had a hospitable way of inviting his friends to come and see the room and then he would ask them to stop to luncheon. This sort of thing, which began occasionally, ended in being an almost daily occurrence, and Jimmy used to hold a little levee every morning, when three, four or five people remained to luncheon. This became too much for Mr. Leyland, and his plan for putting an end to the campaign was a somewhat ingenious one.

"Jimmy one day entertained four friends. The meal not being announced, he rang the bell for the butler.

"When is lunch?" he asked.

"I have no orders for lunch," replied the man, with a stately air.

"Oh, no, of course," replied Jimmy, not in the least disconcerted. "We'll go along to such and such a hotel. Stupid of me to forget it."

"But it was enough, and, though he pretended not to mind and with that delightful impudence for which he was famous turned it off, he never forgave the incident and determined to pay Leyland out. From that day he took his own lunch in a little paper parcel and sat and devoured it when so inclined. On the next occasion Leyland came in to admire the peacock decorations about the usual luncheon hour.

"You will have some lunch, won't you?" Whistler said. Leyland looked surprised.

"Up jumped Jimmy, fetched his bag and proceeded to untie his parcels, saying: 'It's all right, old chap; have no anxiety. It is my lunch, not yours, and you are heartily welcome to it.'"

"When the work was accomplished which had taken so long Leyland wished to pay the bill and asked the artist what was his figure. 'I have worked a whole year and more,' Whistler said. 'I consider my services are worth £2,000 a year, therefore the figure is £2,000, from which you can deduct the few hundreds you have given me on account.'"

"Leyland was horrified. 'Preposterous,' he said, 'perfectly preposterous.' Jimmy looked at him and drew himself up to his full height, which was not great. 'I beg, Mr. Leyland, that you will accept as a gift the entire work of my life for the last year and a quarter. I can compromise nothing.'"

"Once again Whistler scored and Leyland paid. Whistler's thanks to his patron afterward took the form of painting a life-size portrait of him as a devil with horns and hoofs."

Sir E. J. Poynter, P. R. A., says the New York Sun, told in an interview how when he was studying in Paris for three or four years there was one little artistic group called "Tribby."

He says: "My companions were Whistler, Du Maurier, Van Praep, Lamont, Thomas and Armstrong. Of course Du Maurier altered the thing a good deal, but his picture of studio life was in the main a truthful representation of our life at that time. Tribby himself, I believe, was a pure product of the author's brain."

"In many ways the most remarkable man among us was Whistler. If he had only had energy there is no knowing to what height he might have soared, but he was incorrigibly lazy. I remember visiting him once at a nursing home in Paris. He had been working a little on a study in pink carnations. It was exquisite from the extraordinary sense of color it displayed. This was his great gift. He excelled every painter ever known in purity and delicacy of coloring. He rarely finished any work, but he loved to pretend, just for fun, that his unfinished studies were perfect works of genius. Then he would chuckle when people took him at his word and declared that the very incompleteness of the sketches constituted their great artistic merit."

Two Sided Paper. One of the most extraordinary newspapers on record is a weekly published in the little German town of Gruningen. As the place is too small to support more than one paper the Wochenblatt is the official organ of the two local political parties, the Liberals and the Socialists. Half the pages are written by members of each party, in arrangement that seems to satisfy both sides.

AFRAID OF THE DENTIST?

Here Are Some Hints That May Help You Through Your Ordeal.

Everybody dreads the dentist. The bravest heart quails at the thought of the man with the forceps. One who has been through many trying experiences with the dentist and who has made a study of efficiency in all directions claims to have made some discoveries that ought to be helpful to all. Here are some of his suggestions. Your siege in the dentist chair will be greatly lightened if you will remember a few things:

Keep the throat moist by gargling from time to time as you sit in the chair with water mixed with some antiseptic preparation of an ordinary character such as every dentist has at hand.

It is not a bad idea before you go to a dentist to take a bit of chewing gum in the mouth to promote a free flow of saliva. If the gum has a flavor, that will be helpful and will check the tendency to dryness of the throat and the tickling sensation that follows.

Carry a large handkerchief with perfume or cologne on it, which you can hold in your hand and inhale the cologne whenever you have a moment's rest. You will find it very refreshing. While the dentist is at work the handkerchief will give your fingers something to do. This may help to divert your attention from the work on your teeth.

Relieve the strain upon your throat at every opportunity while the dentist is changing his instruments by lifting your head from the chair for even a single moment and taking a deep breath. Shut your eyes and think of some problem, some particular friend or of some one in whom you are deeply interested. This will divert your thought from the dentist's work.

Remember that most of the pain we fear we can escape. In these days dentistry is less painful than ever before. It will probably never be entirely painless, yet much of the work of the dentist is now done without inflicting pain, though, of course, it is always unpleasant to have any one operating with steel instruments in your mouth.

If a painful moment comes while you are sitting in the chair you can relieve it instantly by taking a long breath. Try it and see.—Leslie's Weekly.

HAND AND MOUTH.

Tests Two Managers Used to Get the Right Kind of Employees.

"How do you pick out your stenographers?" By their clothes or for their looks?" asked the sales manager of the correspondence man.

"By neither. Just by their faces. I look at those much more carefully than I do at their fingers. A combination of rugged and ink-stained or rings and carelessly kept nails means that the girl cannot have the job."

"It is simple enough when you come to think of it. The girl who takes pains to keep her hands immaculate and her nails trimmed will turn out letters that are just as carefully made. If she has a white, clean, well-kept hand she will be a good employee, and you are welcome to the information. I took me some years to discover it for myself. How do you pick out your salesmen?"

"Not by their hands," laughed the sales manager. "But by another physical characteristic. I pick them out by their mouths."

"Every man who applies for recommendations, I never read them. If a man's jaws close with a snap when he talks that man has opinions that are strong and can put up a good argument. He will put up a good argument with our customers and a convincing one."

"On the other hand, if he closes his mouth loosely or his jaws wobble when he finishes a sentence he will put up a lame and uncertain line of argument with an obstinate customer, and obstinate customers are the ones we are after. Take a look at the jaws of the men who have been great victors and politicians, and you will see what I mean. It's a simple thing after all, isn't it?"—New York Sun.

A Fable, Partly.

A fox met a monkey. "Why is it," said the fox, "that human beings like you and don't like me? We are both thieves by nature—and yet they hunt me with dogs, but make a pet of you."

"The answer is easy," answered the monkey. "True, we are both thieves, and you are wiser than I am, but I make 'em laugh, and they don't care whether I steal or not, and they don't care whether I am a fool or not."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MADAME DE SYLVA,

CONTRALTO

Late of the Royal Opera, Vienna

Bura Chapel, Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, Pa.

TUESDAY EVENING, FEB. 10th, 1914

Madame de Sylva, who sings at Bura Chapel to-morrow evening, is an Austria by birth and a protegee of Carmen Sylva, whose name she took. She has filled many important operatic roles in the far East, Constantinople, Cairo, Shanghai, Manila, etc. and is just now completing a world tour.

Miss Lohr has kindly consented to supply two piano numbers. The popular price (fifty cents to two-wheeled) and twenty-five cents to those connected with College and Seminary has been made possible through the financial backing of an organization of wealthy New York people interested in the dissemination of a taste for good music. Gettysburg will doubtless express its appreciation by filling Bura Chapel to its capacity.

"Hongkong has heard few artists her equal, certainly none her superior."—South China News.

"Madame de Sylva completely realized the extravagant claims made for her."—Singapore Free Press.

"One of the greatest treats ever heard in Yokohama."—Japan Herald.

Pison Scene—LE PROFETE.....Meyerbeer

(Fides in her dungeon cell learns that John of Leyden, prophet of the Anabaptists, is none other than her own son, and that he is about to visit her. The aria expresses her rage at her captivity, her joy at the prospect of again seeing her son, and her fear of his fate when his followers learn that he is an impostor.)

Part II

Prayer—TANNHAUSER.....Wagner

The pilgrims returning from Rome pass through the village singing of sins forgiven, but Tannhauser is not among them. As their songs die away, Elisabeth in her despair prays that she may die and divine grace fall upon her lover.

O Mio Fernando—LA FAVORITA.....Donizetti

(Leonora bitterly repents the sordid bargain which made her the king's plaything, rendering her marriage to Fernando impossible.)

Soll Wie Die Nacht.....Bohn

"Still as the night, Deep as the sea, Should be thy love for me."

The Erl-King.....Schuber

(Schubert's most dramatic song, written when he was but eighteen. A setting of Goethe's poem relating the wild night ride of the father bearing in his arms his fever-stricken child who imagines that they are pursued by Death in the guise of the Erl-King, who finally snatches away the child as they enter the castle portal. The vocal score depicts the terror of the child, the seductive pleading of the Erl-King and the reassuring tones of the father, while the accompaniment suggests the fury of the storm and the rhythmical hoofbeats of the horse.)
